

Therapeutic Day Treatment

Admission Criteria

Children must meet the criteria for an Axis I diagnosis to include, but not limited to ADHD, Disruptive Behavior Disorder, Oppositional Defiant Disorder, Conduct Disorder, or Depression.

Children must be exhibiting behavior that is notably unlike most children their age, which is not the result of a developmental disability or mental retardation. These behaviors must be present for at least one year and are expected to continue without mental health interventions.

Children may have an Axis II diagnosis of Mild Mental Retardation (IQ must be 65 or above), providing they've demonstrated an ability to understand the behavior modification system in place. The child's ability to function and absorb the concepts taught at within the program will be assessed and determined during the initial intake assessment held prior to admittance in the program.