Discharge Criteria:

Discharge Criteria is typically met when the youth demonstrates progress on meeting the goals and objectives of the Individual Transitional Living Service Plan. Planning for discharge of a youth will involve the transition team which initially includes the youth, and the youth's parent and/or legal guardian, and referring agency; will begin at the time of admission, and will remain an important and dynamic issue throughout the program.

Criteria for the youth's discharge will be outlined on the Individual Transitional Living Service Plan and made available to the youth, parent/legal guardian, and the placement agency. The discharge criteria will be consistent with the services the program provides. The condition under which the youth may be discharged prior to completing the above mentioned criteria includes, but are not limited to the following: not being employed and/or not enrolled in school or vocational training program, life threatening self-injurious acts; extreme aggression/sexually acting out in the community, fire starting and possession of knives, guns, or other instruments of violence and ongoing substance abuse.

The Life Skills Coach and/or Program Director will work with the referring agency, caregiver, and the youth to develop a plan and timeline to reduce or eliminate the above mentioned behaviors. If the plan is not successful, then the Coach and/or Program Director will communicate the need to terminate services with the referring worker.

There will be procedures for assisting the placing agency in securing another or more suitable program should YouthQuest, Inc. cease operations, or should the program treatment team find the youth is in need of a more suitable program in light of specific needs.
